Section I. Funding Opportunity Description

The U.S. Consulate General, Public Affairs Section in Mumbai is soliciting proposals for a cooperative agreement that meets the specifications stated in Section II from legally-recognized non-profit, non-governmental organizations that meet U.S. and Indian technical and legal requirements to develop and implement public diplomacy programs as specified by Section II below. Information about the Public Affairs Section can be found at: <http://mumbai.usconsulate.gov/>

Section II. "Going Green" Through Open Online Course Led by Indian Alumni of U.S. Exchange Programs

During President Obama's historic visit to India in January 2015, the President and Prime Minister Modi released a joint statement that included a mutual call to address climate change and better protect the environment. In the statement, our leaders recognized that global climate change is a profound threat to humanity and to the imperatives of sustainable development, growth, and the eradication of poverty. Both countries share a deep concern for better protection of the planet and understand that concerted action is needed on both sides.

In order to inform audiences, particularly students, about the threat of climate change, environmental challenges, and options for greener development, the U.S. Mission to India is searching for a grantee to produce a ten-episode, English-language massively open online course (MOOC) on environmental protection and climate change, using the expertise of Indian alumni of U.S. exchange programs. The MOOC also will inform U.S. audiences about environmental challenges in India and novel solutions being implemented by government and civil society.

The five U.S. diplomatic posts in India, including the Embassy in New Delhi and the four Consulates in Mumbai, Kolkata, Hyderabad, and Chennai, will each identify one alumnus per consular district to assist in the development of the curriculum and to record two lectures on subjects related to the environment. Examples include, but are not limited to, the impact of fossil fuel use on global warming, water conservation, alternative energy, and deforestation. Once the open online course is filmed, edited, and released, two alumni in each consular district will lead viewing and discussion sessions with their students. In addition, the courses will be made available across Mission India's social media platforms for mass distribution to both American and Indian audiences.

U.S. MISSION INDIA PUBLIC DIPLOMACY GRANTS PROGRAM

- b) The grantee will work with the alumni and the U.S. Consulate General, Mumbai to finalize topics for the 10-course session and assign two topics per alumnus. The alumni will have two months to develop the curriculum for their two episodes, including developing reading lists and suggested classroom assignments.

The grantee will conduct all necessary logistics for this recording session, including but not limited to, arranging and funding travel and accommodations for the alumni as well as hiring a professional vendor to record and edit the episodes.
- d) The grantee will arrange travel in consultation with the U.S. Embassy and Consulates, and cover all costs of ticketing, lodging, per diem, and other necessary costs for round-trip travel (flight and ground transportation). This may involve changes to itineraries including last-minute changes, resulting in cancellation charges to be incurred by the grantee.
- e) The grantee will cover all costs to develop and implement the recordings, including but not limited to, the recording requirements, working meals and tea/refreshments, U.S.-branded materials to be printed, and any additional miscellaneous expenses.
- f) The grantee will cover costs for showing the footage to the alumni and to the Public Affairs teams at the U.S. Embassy Delhi and the U.S. Consulate Mumbai for review, as well as any costs associated with re-filming and other post-production expenses.
- g) The U.S. Embassy and Consulates will identify 10 teacher alumni to conduct the course with their students using the filmed material, reading lists, and assessments. The grantee will coordinate with these teachers.
- h) The grantee will ensure that the teacher facilitators lead the series at 10 total academic institutions selected in partnership with the U.S. Embassy and Consulates. The grantee will cover honorarium costs for these teachers.
- i) The grantee will be responsible for design and printing costs of the course materials, including reading materials and certificates. The grantee will also be responsible for distribution costs, including, but not limited to, courier charges to send materials to the 10 host institutions.
- j) The grantee will design, print, and distribute to the teacher alumni sets of certificates of participation (signed by a U.S. Embassy or Consulate official) for presentation to the students who take part in the facilitated courses.
- k) The grantee will provide to U.S. Embassy New Delhi a master copy of the video sessions and copy of all course materials, including syllabus, curriculum, and classroom assignments.
